For a lecturer, research and teaching are passions, but administration? It's often a "horror" that makes it hard to sleep. Especially when it's credit score submission season (DUPAK) or the final research report. A desk full of piles of files, colorful folders scattered around, and searching for a single sheet of Decision Letter (SK) tucked away feels like looking for a needle in a haystack.

Well, this is where Srikandi comes in—not just as a government app, but as a digital “personal assistant” that will save your academic career. Let’s break down why Srikandi is a game-changer for professors!

1. No Hassle with DUPAK: Documents Just a Click Away

One of the biggest headaches when handling promotions is gathering physical proof of your activities. With Srikandi, all Assignment Decrees, Teaching Assignment Letters, and even Committee Appointment Decrees are neatly stored digitally from the moment they're issued.

- Before: You had to rummage through the archive room or run to the HR department to request copies of lost letters.
- Now: Just open the digital archive folder in Srikandi, download, and attach. Done in minutes!

2. More "Human-Centered" Research Administration

Handling research grants usually involves lengthy bureaucracy—from signing contracts to submitting progress reports. With the Electronic Signature (TTE) feature in Srikandi, you no longer have to wait for hours outside the Dean's or Rector's office just to get a wet signature.

As long as you have an internet connection, the research document approval process can be completed while you're waiting for coffee at the airport or conducting field observations.

3. "Tangible" Performance Evidence

Ever feel like you've worked hard but the proof has vanished into thin air? In Srikandi, every incoming and outgoing letter has a clear track record. Who sent it, when it was received, and where it is now can be monitored in real-time. This is a safeguard for faculty members to ensure all their academic performance is properly documented, and there's no longer any excuse that "the letter hasn't arrived yet."

4. A Neat and Standardized Academic Portfolio

Srikandi uses the national archiving standard (ANRI). This means that the documents you store there are legally recognized and have a uniform format. This makes things easier when the university conducts an internal audit or when you need to transfer data for faculty certification (Serdos) or to fill out the Faculty Workload (BKD) form.

Conclusion: Focus on Your Research; Let Srikandi Handle the Administration

A faculty member's job is to advance knowledge, not to be a "paper courier." By maximizing Srikandi, you can cut administrative time by up to 70%. What can you use the remaining time for? Of course, to focus on writing for reputable journals or simply enjoying quality time without being haunted by the shadow of unfinished DUPAK paperwork.

So, do you still want to stick with piles of dusty paperwork? It's time to move on and make Srikandi your loyal companion on your academic career journey!
